

Irish Simmental Cattle Society Ltd (ISCS)

Terms & Conditions and Privacy Policy (Data) update

On May 25th 2018, the General Data Protection Law (GDPR) comes into effect. This is a new data protection law and will give you greater control over your personal data and transparency around how it is used.

The ISCS has always handled its breeder's data with the upmost security and this new law will further enforce our commitment on keeping data safe and secure.

You can view our Privacy Policy on the following link: Click here to view Privacy Policy. This document sets out how we collect, use and store your data plus your rights in relation to your personal data.

As a member of the ISCS you receive various communications from the Society in the form of Circulars, Text Messages and other various correspondences in relation to breed matters. We will be detailing your options in relation to data receipt in an upcoming circular, however in the meantime should you wish not to receive such material or text messages please contact the Society Office (057 93 24577) and we will remove your details from our listings.